MOVEMENT IS LAUNCHED TO DAM THE YOUGH, PROVIDING BATHING BEACH, PLAYGROUND

Half the Cost of Improvement
Is Met by Former Resident.

ASKED CITY TO GIVE BALANCE

Details Are Now Being Worked Out on a Scheme to Provide Playground on a Scale That Will Assure a Wonder Spot for Both Young and Old.

The Yough is to be dammed, providing details now being investigated. The project is to be a dam of concrete, half the cost of the improvement has been virtually pledged by a former resident of this community, and the details are already being investigated. No estimate of the cost has as yet been made. The nearest approach to an indication of what the dam will be is a statement made by the late James R. Hogg, city engineer, that for $15,000 a dam could be built across the river below town, and provision made to carry the sewage beyond that point.

A comprehensive scheme for slack-watering the stream to provide a place for boating and other aquatic sports, a bathing beach that will be one in fact as well as in name, and a public park and playground equal to any in Western Pennsylvania, is being advocated and investigated.

Captain Edmund Dunn, for years a persistent advocate of "dam the Yough," is actively interested in this latest movement. He has already enlisted the support of a number of leading citizens.

For years the damming of the Yough has been discussed, but the plan has been regarded as so chimerical that it was not taken seriously. Captain Dunn's enthusiasm, however, was not to be discouraged. Through the medium of friends he was brought into contact with a former resident of town, who immediately viewed the project with sufficient interest that he expressed willingness, first, to contribute $7,500, and later, to stand half the total expense, no matter what it might be. He also offered several suggestions regarding the plan.

"They tell me folks go out to the end of the street car line and then walk a mile to bathe at the South Connellsville beach," this man said. "You ought to have a beach right here in town. It can be done, and I am willing to do my share."

The general scheme is to build a dam below town, and to erect there a power plant which will generate sufficient electricity to light the park. It is planned to build "There is ample land along the lower West Side, it is pointed out, to provide a delightful public park and playground. It is further proposed, although no steps have been taken in that direction, to secure from property owners along the river front on the West Side, a donation of 30 feet of ground from each of their lots, for the purpose of constructing a boulevard along the river bank. If the river is dammed, every effort will be put forth to beautify the west bank. The Baltimore & Ohio has monopolized the entire east river front, leaving no hope for improvement along that side of the river.

Efforts will be made to have City Council take action in the matter. There is a belief that the city should stand the other half of the cost. Those who favor the project declare that the money could not be spent in a better way.

Connellsville has long neglected its river front. Possessed of a stream that other communities would give anything for, no steps have ever been taken to utilize it for even commercial purposes. The proposed dam would slackwater the stream as far as the West Penn power house, which would give a stretch of several miles for boating and other aquatic amusements, as well as providing a beauty spot that would be the envy of every town in this section.

DUGGANS' SUIT NOW ON TRIAL

Collision Between Auto and Street Car
Is at Issue; Jury Visits Scene of Accident.

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, Oct. 18.—Before Judge Van Swearington today were taken up the damage suits of Herbert Duggan and his father, John Duggan, of West Side, Connellsville, against the West Penn Railways Company. Herbert Duggan is asking $2,000 for personal injuries and his father is asking $1,000 on account of his son's injuries and $2,000 for damages to his automobile. The Duggan automobile, driven by Herbert Duggan, was struck by a West Penn car on a crossing in the road between Wheeler and Connellsville. The car, it was testified by the plaintiffs, was running at an excessive speed and the automobile was wrecked. Herbert Duggan, it was claimed, was badly injured. The accident occurred June 16, 1914. The jury was taken to Connellsville to view the scene of the accident.

The damage action of Harry Dawson of Vanderhill, against Joseph Rull, a constable, was tried before Judge E. H. Reppert. Dawson claimed from the constable $300, with interest from June 14, 1915. According to the allegations of Dawson, Justice of the Peace R. E. McLaughlin in Vanderhill entered judgment against him and in favor of the Auto Sales & Repair Company of Vanderhill on May 25, 1915. Dawson's automobile was levied upon, and he claimed that he asked Constable Rull to summon three disinterested persons to appraise the property which he might elect to retain under the provisions of the $300 exemption law. He claimed that the constable refused to summon the appraisers, and that his automobile was sold. The suit was to recover what he claimed he lost, $300, by not being permitted to take advantage of the exemption law.

Luigi Parnelli, administrator of the estate of Antonio Belino, was awarded a verdict before Judge J. C. Van Swearington today against Abo Friedman, formerly proprietor of the Albion Hotel, Fairhouse. For a whipping which Friedman admitted giving Belino, his porter, on June 12, 1915, the jury awarded the porter's estate six and one-fourth cents nominal damages and $14 compensatory damages.

Violent Teutonic attacks are in progress along the entire front in the Carpathians, but the Entente lines have not been penetrated, the announcement adds.

All the military news from the Rumanian front is declared to be reassuring.

GERMANS REPULSED.

PARIS, Oct. 18.—Three times last night the Germans delivered attacks on the French positions in Sully-Sulbaud, on the Somme front. The war office announced that the French maintained all their positions and inflicted heavy losses on the Germans.

Near Bern-en-Santerre, the Germans gained a footing in a French first line trench, but were driven out.

ASK U. S. TO ACT.

BRITISH ADVANCE IN RAIR.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—"Rain fell heavily during the night," says today's official report from the front in France. "Notwithstanding this we made progress at various points between the Albert-Bapaume road and Les Bouvais. We have taken some prisoners."

SEEK U. S. ASSISTANCE.

ATHENS, Oct. 18.—After a demonstration here against the Entente Allies during which a procession of several thousand persons marched to the American legation and protested against the landing of French marines, a delegation of six persons called at the American legation and presented resolutions asking the sympathy and protection of the United States against the encroachment of the Entente Powers. The spokesman said in English in presenting the resolutions:

"Henry Clay's speech in regard to Greece's struggle for liberty as well as our own Daniel Webster said the struggle would have been meaningless if the liberties of Greece had been substantially lost."

The American minister, Garrett Drop, promised to forward the petition to Washington.

NEUTRALS NOT SAFE.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18.—The Turkish government today warned the United States that neutral ships, including Americans passing through the Turkish coast and the islands of Rhodes and Samos in the Aegean Sea might become targets for gunfire from Turkish military forces.

In announcing the receipt of the bureau of navigation of the Department of Commerce in a statement says that the Sublime Porte has notified "the government of the United States that the Turkish military authorities have in fire on enemy ships passing between the coast and the islands and that since it is not possible to distinguish between enemy and neutral ships neutral ships should not navigate in those regions in order to avoid any regrettable accidents."

SCOTSDALE'S FIRE FIGHTERS IN TILT WITH COUNCILMEN

Declare Move is on Foot to Establish a Paid Department.

POLITICAL FAVORITISM HINTED

Firemen Declare Recommendations of the Fire and Water Committee Are Merely an Entering Wedge to Move to Saddle Borough With a Payroll.

Special to The Courier.

SCOTSDALE, Oct. 18.—At a special meeting of the Scottdale volunteer firemen last night, answer was made to the charges and suggestions of the fire and water committee of council. The committee had recommended the limiting of membership in the department to 60, and the reorganization of the whole department. The membership is now 100.

The firemen did not hesitate to speak their minds and when a letter was drafted in reply to the committee it contained some strong language. "We believe," the letter reads, "that the recommendation of the fire and water committee is wholly for the purpose of an entering wedge to later secure a paid fire department, to put upon the payroll some of the committee's favored firemen. A small disinterested minority, at an additional cost of thousands of dollars to the borough and without any real increase in efficiency."

The committee claims that friction within the ranks of the fire department operated against the best interests of the community. This the firemen deny.

The reduction of membership, the letter states, would seriously interfere with the efficiency of the department. "It is better to have 100 men to have 60," is the argument advanced.

The members of the organization were not advised with and were not invited to meet the committee of council for the purpose of a fair and frank discussion of the shortcomings or needs of the fire department. Before the judgment of the committee was rendered," it is stated. Therefore, it was resolved last night to return to council his fire and water committee's report without recommendation, but with the assurance that the department or its officers would meet at any time with the committee to discuss ways and means for improvement within the department.

The letter to council was signed by 65 firemen who were present at the meeting last evening, and the 35 absentees are expected to sign later.

The committee reported to council some time ago, and council turned over the report to the department with a request in reply to the same at the next meeting of council on Monday, November 6.

The fire and water committee plans to reorganize the department by limiting the membership to 15 from each of the four wards of the borough, or 60 in the department.

"In case the method outlined is adopted and does not prove entirely satisfactory," the committee of council reports, "we will seriously consider recommending and installing a paid department."

GIRL IS KIDNAPED

Taken by Antists, She Is Dragged,
Ruhned, Then Returned Home.

Special to The Courier.

GREENSBURG, Oct. 18.—Mary McCullough, 15 years old, a sophomore in the New Alexandria High School, was kidnapped by two unidentified men, driving an automobile, dragged and rushed, and some hours later returned to a point near where they picked her up. The girl is still under the effects of the drug and is unable to give a comprehensive account of the affair.

Miss McCullough, who is a daughter of S. T. McCullough, a farmer near New Alexandria, was returning home from a neighbor's about 5 o'clock last night when an automobile containing two men halted beside her. She was bundled into the machine and carried off.

The girl recovered consciousness to find herself, at 3 o'clock this morning, at a point near where she was picked up. State constables are working on the case.

MACCABEES HOST TO SOLDIER BOYS

Open House Is Held for Benefit of Members and Their Friends;
Fine Evening.

The Maccabees held open house in their building last night in honor of the boys of Company D and the Hospital Corps. Many of the guardsmen are members of the lodge, and it was in their honor that the affair was held. The guests included former officers of the company.

The soldiers met at the armory and marched to the Maccabees Hall in a body. The Maccabees were lined up along one side of the assembly hall as the guardsmen trooped in, and greeted them with rapturous applause. The orchestra then struck up the Star Spangled Banner and the cheering became deafening. The company stood at attention as the national anthem was played.

After breaking ranks the boys were given all the privileges of the house. A lunch was served, consisting of sandwiches, coffee and other tasty treats.

There was no organized entertainment. The boys were told to make themselves at home, which they did. A basketball game between two girl teams from A. Overholt & Company at Broad Ford was the principal attraction. Some of the soldiers took a dip in the swimming pool, others played pocket billiards and still more sat down to cards.

Later in the evening Franks' Brothers' orchestra furnished music for dancing.

The soldiers were delighted with the reception they were given. At the behest of Captain R. S. Morton of Company D they gave three rousing cheers for the Maccabees, after which they individually expressed pleasure over the affair. There was no formal speaking and not a tiresome moment during the evening.

Smokes were provided.

LIST OF PRIZES FOR HALLOWEEN PARADE MADE UP

Firemen Announce Awards;
Floats Will Have Big Part in Celebration.

WANT MORE CONTRIBUTIONS

Response to Requests for Money Has Not Been Generous; Lodges, Bands,
Schools and Other Organizations
Will Figure in the Prize List.

A list of prizes for the big Halloween parade to be held here on October 27, was made up by a committee of firemen last night. There will be additions to the list if the volunteers who are in charge of the celebration can collect more money about town. To date the contributions have been small, and the firemen are rather disappointed at the response made to their requests for money.

The prize list as made up at present includes awards for the best band in line, the best burlesque band, the best calisthumpian band, the largest uniformed fire company, the largest fraternal organization and the largest ladies' fraternal organization.

There will be two prizes for unique floats. In the parade one division will be devoted to floats alone, seven or eight business houses having already signified their intentions of entering floats in the procession.

A prize will be given to the school room which has the largest turnout, judging by percentage of the entire enrollment. Another award will go to the school building which has the largest turnout, again figuring by the percentage of scholars. There will be a prize for the best slogan banner.

The other prizes are for the best prince and princess, Uncle Sam, burlesque on Mr. Hughes or President Wilson, devil, witch, George and Martha Washington, clown, cowboy and cowgirl, hoboe, Indian, paper dressed girl, animal costume, and fairies.

The route of the parade will be decided on very shortly. The committee which has charge of this end of the affair has not been able to get together as yet, but the members plan to hold a meeting some time this week.

The New Haven Hose Company will hold its regular meeting on Thursday night. At this time final details of the celebration will be worked out. The committee to make arrangements for the distribution of apples and doughnuts to the children will report and the place for the distribution will be decided upon. It is expected that a grand marshal for the parade will be selected at this meeting.

VICTIM KNOWN HERE

Man Murdered at Cumberland Run
Out of Dickinson Run.

A coroner's jury probing the death of Harry W. Matthews rendered a verdict that he was murdered by John Whamstreet in a Cumberland saloon Monday night. Matthews was a Western Maryland flagman running between Dickinson Run and Cumberland and was very well known around the former section.

According to the evidence at the inquest, Matthews was playing the piano in a saloon when Whamstreet remarked that the musician was "a helluva piano player." An argument ensued and while the two men were standing in front of the bar, Whamstreet, it is alleged, drew a knife and slashed Matthews in the neck, inflicting a wound so severe that he died in a hospital six hours later. He leaves a wife and four children.

LOTS OF GAME

Hunters Say It Is Plentiful. But Leaves Are Too Thick.

J. E. Sims returned home yesterday afternoon from a hunting trip to Ohio. Noah Anderson and Frank Bradford, who accompanied him on the trip, went to Confluence to try their luck before returning.

Other hunters who returned home yesterday were John Calhoun and Percy Swink, who during their two days' stay at Foxburg bagged a nice lot of game, and Blaine Welmer. The hunters claim there is plenty of game but the thickness of the fall of leaves prevents them from capturing pheasants and squirrels in any large number.

Do you know that about 300,000 babies under one year, die annually in the United States? A great work is being done by the United States Government Children's Bureau and by the Society for the Prevention of Infant mortality, to reduce these terrible figures and give every baby his chance in the world.

Uncle Sam is printing special books to Mothers on how to prepare for Baby and how to take care of him after he comes. These books are written by leading authorities on the subject and give valuable information, in several languages on the Care of Babies. Uncle Sam has found that Government Bulletins could do wonders for crops and livestock—now for better babies, which will mean a stronger, better people and nation. Visit our Infants' Department during BABY DAYS and learn how you may get these books absolutely free.

CANDY TO BE SCARCE

Scarcely of Labor Cuts Down Production of Big Factories.

Candy is going to be very scarce around Christmas time, according to letters sent out by the big manufacturers to their local customers. A new labor law prohibiting the employment of young girls in the factories has caused such a shortage of labor that production is greatly curtailed.

Unless the youths of the city who seek much money in candy for their favored ones at the Yuletide season place their orders early the sweets will not be on hand when the glad bells ring out on Christmas morn.

Strange to say prices have not advanced. Package candy still sells from 60 cents a pound up for standard quality goods, depending largely upon how elaborate a box is wanted.

Bulk candy will be conspicuous principally for the small quantities of it, one candy dealer says.

On account of the spread of infantile paralysis, authorities are recommending that parents aid them in fighting this most dangerous epidemic by following certain simple preventive measures a home.

Keep children away from crowd and strangers' children. 2. Watch children and keep up general bodily health. 3. Spray children's noses and throat daily with a reliable antiseptic. 4. A first sign of illness telephone for you family physician.

Authorities agree that the germ of infantile paralysis or meningitis and it way into the system mainly through lodging in the saliva and mucus of the mouth, nose and throat. Logical prevention is to kill these germs before they go further.

Hyclorite dissolves the mucus and saliva in mouth, nose and throat, cleans the membranes thoroughly, kills the germs and does not irritate.

Safeguard children by spraying mouth, nose and throat with Hyclorite. It is reliable. It has many times the strength of peroxide and boric acid, though it contains no poison or acid.

Hyclorite is safe to have anywhere in the home.

Any druggist can supply Hyclorite in 25c and 50c bottles.

TO PUT ON FLESH AND INCREASE WEIGHT

Most people eat from four to six pounds of good solid fat-making food every day and still do not increase in weight one ounce, while on the other hand many of the plump, chunky folks eat very lightly and keep gaining all the time. It's all a matter of the nature of the food they eat. It isn't Nature's way at all.

Most thin people stay thin because their powers of assimilation are defective. They absorb just enough of the food they eat to maintain life and a semblance of health and strength. Stomach won't help them. A dozen meals a day won't make them gain a single "stay there" pound. All the fat-producing elements of their food just stay there in the intestines until they pass from the body as waste. What such people need is something that will prepare these fatty food elements so that their blood can absorb them and deposit them all about the body—something that will multiply their red blood corpuscles and increase their blood's carrying power.

For such a condition it is well to recommend eating a Sargol tablet with every meal. Sargol is not, as some believe a patent drug, but is simply a careful combination of six of the most effective and powerful assimilative and flesh building elements known to chemistry. It is absolutely harmless, yet has been wonderfully effective in a single tablet eaten with each meal often, according to reports of users, has the effect of increasing the weight of a thin man or woman from three to five pounds a week. Sargol is sold by all good druggists everywhere on a positive guarantee of weight increase or money back.—Adv.

J. W. Abraham and William Kozant were Uniontown business visitors on Saturday.

The Hayden Quartet gave their entertainment here Saturday evening. The entertainment consisted of vocal and instrumental music and readings, and was the best of a series of entertainments gotten up by the different classes of the Methodist Episcopal Church to raise money towards rebuilding the church. It was held under the auspices of the church choir.

Rev. Ralph Bell, the new minister assigned to this charge by the conference recently held at Washington, Pa., preached his initial sermon here Sunday morning and evening and made a favorable impression on his hearers.

William Hayden and family, W. S. Nixon and family of Uniontown, were the guests of relatives here on Sunday.

A. S. Howard and wife are on an extended visit with their son, Dr. R. D. Howard and wife at Fairmont, W. Va.

Despite the unfavorable weather on the opening day of the hunting season Monday there were some good bags reported in this section. The birds report squirrels numerous in the mountains, but the almost continuous rain Monday made hunting disagreeable. T. R. Lynch, John Thomas of Fairbank, with Dr. H. B. Mathiot and J. N. O'Neill of Smithfield returned from a day's hunt Monday evening soaked to the skin with rain and a small bag of rabbits. H. J. Rankin killed the limit allowed for one day's hunt.

Rev. W. M. Bracken is packing his goods preparatory to removal to Confluence, his new charge.

Squire J. C. High and wife are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Porter Brown, their daughter and son-in-law, at Wilkinsburg.

EDDY, TIGERS' QUARTERBACK.

Coach Picks Former End For Position of Field General.

After several weeks of experimenting and shifting with a very limited amount of desirable material, Speedy Eddy has evidently definitely determined upon Jack Eddy as Princeton's first string quarterback. Though he has had but little experience at the position, Eddy has shown a quick grasp of its essentials and a happy faculty for keeping his team working harmoniously and at top speed at all times. Other Tiger quarterbacks have developed greater versatility and a wider comprehension of the possibilities of their position, but all have failed to measure up to the all round standard attained by the former halfback.

Princeton this season feels a peculiar need of an exceptionally good quarterback. The Tigers have a splendid line from tackle to tackle, are well supplied with ends who, though lacking heft and manliness, are fast, sure workers, and in the case of the best players in the east in Eddie Briggs. Back of the line, however, as on the ends, there is a tendency to failure that does not promise much in the way of sustained effectiveness against such bulky opponents as the Tigers will probably encounter in the Yale and Harvard games.

To make an attack featuring fake kicks, delayed passes and the like effective requires the presence in the backfield of a real general.

Eddy leaves something to be desired in his catching of punts, but this weakness may be attributed to a lack of practice. It is reported that he has shown a marked improvement of late in this respect.

FRESHEN UP! GIVE YOURSELF A REAL CHEW

The Juicy Sweetness of "American Navy" Puts More
Snap into a Man

BIG VALUE—RICH CHEWING

A sweet, mellow chew of good tobacco is wonderfully refreshing. But the tobacco must be in plug form to give you the utmost of wholesome, healthful enjoyment.

The rich, natural juices pressed into a golden-brown plug taste so deliciously good that it puts new snap into you.

American Navy plug is the distinctive chew. It gives you the same type of leaf as the best "scraps," but it gives you whole leaf instead of "cuttings," and its hard-pressed instead of loose-packed. That means more sweet, mellow flavor and more genuine tobacco satisfaction.

The leaf for American Navy is more carefully selected and the plugs are more carefully made than is the case with many higher-priced tobaccos.

You actually get more than your money's worth of chewing enjoyment in American Navy.

You'll know this for yourself soon as you get started chewing American Navy, because its rare distinctive flavor gets right next to your tongue the very first chew—and stays there.

Try a big cut of American Navy and you'll wonder how you ever got along without it. In 5c and 10c cuts.

Facts Versus Fallacies

FACT is a real state of things. FALLACY is an apparently genuine but really illogical statement or argument.

FEW persons realize how important the saloon is, not only as an economic factor, but in providing, at small cost, relaxation for the working man. Without the saloon the already heavy burden of taxation would be increased. The $100,000,000 war tax demonstrated partially what that burden would be, but if national prohibition should do away with the jobs of a million men as well as hundreds of millions of dollars of tax and license money, it would be a knockout blow to the prosperity of the country.

WITHOUT saloons the people would have fewer pleasures, less comfort and happiness. The saloon is the poor man's club. It is the chief means of recreation for the working man. More and more people are beginning to realize that the pace that kills is the pace that has no let-up—that the work and worry, toil and turmoil of modern life are too much for the man who cannot find some harmless, inexpensive way of rejuvenating his tired nervous system and brain.

REAL rest and recreation cannot come from athletics. Hugo Munsterberg, of Harvard University, a recognized authority on the subject, says: "We know, today, too well that physical exercise and sport is not real rest for the exhausted brain cells."

Sharp physical and mental labor, the constant hurry and drudgery produce a state of tension and irritation which demands before the night's sleep some dulling inhibition if a dangerous unrest is not to set in. Alcohol relieves that daily tension most directly.

THE saloon is a necessity as well as a luxury. It contributes more toward the comfort and happiness of the people than the jeweler, the milliner, the modiste, dance-halls, theatres, pool-rooms, professional baseball, cigars, cigarettes, art or music. The good it does far outweighs the trifling harm that results from the excesses of a few. Experience and observation show that less than three per cent. of the people are harmed by over-indulgence in alcoholic liquors.

HAPPINESS is the real object in life. It takes precedent over all other things. Wealth, position, religion, are simply means toward that end. So is the saloon. It gives the cheapest and best of material mediums because it gives the greatest amount of pleasure to the most people for the least money.

IT is a FALLACY to say that which gives so much pleasure at so small a cost, and to so many people, is harmful—when FACTS show that less than three per cent. indulge to excess, and that ninety-seven per cent. use alcoholic beverages moderately and temperately.

There is a Real Difference

Cream of tartar, derived from grapes, is used in Royal Baking Powder because it is the best and most healthful ingredient known for the purpose.

Phosphate and alum, which are derived from mineral sources, are used in some baking powders, instead of cream of tartar, because they are cheaper.

If you have been induced to use baking powders made from alum or phosphate, use Royal Baking Powder instead. You will be pleased with the results and the difference in the quality of the food.

STARTS MILK PROBE

Governor Names Commission to Probe Milk Prices Now Travelling.

Special to The Courier.
PITTSBURGH, Oct. 17.—The state of Pennsylvania is going to take a hand in the little game in which milk sellers are trying to boost the price to the housewife. Governor Martin G. Brumbaugh yesterday announced the appointment of a commission to make a thorough investigation of the milk situation.

Following is the Pennsylvania commission named by the governor: C. A. Carothers, Washington, deputy secretary of agriculture; Morris T. Phillips, Pomeroy, member of the state commission of agriculture; Dr. Clyde L. King, University of Pennsylvania, Philadelphia; and C. Henderson Supple, Philadelphia.

Many milk dealers in Pittsburgh have asserted there is no valid reason why Pittsburghers should pay 11 cents a quart for milk. In Philadelphia the price is eight cents a quart and an effort is being made there at present to raise it to nine. Pittsburgh is among the few cities of the country where the highest prices are obtained for milk.

A "SAFETY FIRST" MEMORIAL FOR DR. JOS. A. HOLMES

Object of an Association Formed From National Societies.

WILL NOT ERECT A MONUMENT

But Create a Foundation to Provide Annual Awards to Encourage the Development of Safety First Devices, Appliances and Methods in Mining.

The representatives of twenty-two national societies, more or less directly associated with mining and its kindred industries, have formed the Joseph A. Holmes Safety Association for the purpose of providing a fitting memorial of the life and services of the first chief of the United States Bureau of Mines. The executive committee of the association is Van H. Manning, president; Charles E. Walcott, Honorary Jennings, Samuel Gompers, John A. Brashers and David T. Day, secretary, Washington, District of Columbia.

Every activity and aspiration of Dr. Holmes centered around the development of systematic means for bettering working conditions in all the mines, and for stopping every possible waste in the uses of fuels and other minerals. Out of his work as geologist for a state and then for the national government he was able to secure the organization of the existing Government Bureau of Mines, and at its head he stayed until he literally wore out his life, dying at the age of 55 from tubercular affection contracted while working to better conditions in Alaskan mines.

It was Dr. Holmes who originated the slogan, "Safety First," and to promote the great factor of safety in all mining operations will be the association's aim. In this way it is felt that the work of Dr. Holmes may best be perpetuated. It is keenly recognized that to efficiently promote safety in mining and kindred industries the miner himself must be the unit to be worked upon.

It is proposed that annually there shall be awarded one or more medals, with honorariums, to be known as The Holmes Award for the Encouragement of Those Originating, Developing and Installing the Most Efficient Safety-First Devices, Appliances or Methods in the Mineral Industry During the Previous Year. These awards to be the result of reports and investigations by the secretary and the representatives of the association.

Once a year a meeting will be held in Washington, at which these awards will be made, and to which the recipients will be invited, the awards being announced publicly at a dinner or meeting which may be held at the time of the annual meeting of the representatives of the societies making up the association.

The executive committee, at its discretion, may make awards of suitable medals for personal heroism or distinguished service or the saving of life in any branch of the mineral industry, such medals being of small intrinsic value, but suitably inscribed with the name of the recipient and the nature of his service. These medals will be presented publicly, with appropriate ceremonies, through the medium of the field representative of the Bureau of Mines or other suitable agency at the mining camp, town or village of city nearest the mine, smelter or other establishment in which the act of heroism or service was performed.

The efficiency of the organization depends upon the amount of money placed at the association's disposal. If this is large, so that only the income need be used, a great work can be accomplished with infinitely less money than by the present sporadic individual efforts of mining companies to prevail upon their employees to be careful.

The association, therefore, feels justified in asking the mining fraternity of the United States and allied mineral industries to contribute large sums liberally to this association, to be expended by the consent of the captains of industry themselves and not by Congressional enactment, and these captains of industry will always control the methods of developing safety.

BAYONNE STRIKERS FEAR HAND OF SHERIFF KINKADEE

SHERIFF EUGENE KINKADEE

Sheriff Eugene Kinkadee of Hudson county, N. J., the man who broke last year's strike of oil workers in Bayonne, N. J., after the police had failed, has been watching the recent disorders, which were attended by fatalities. "I hope I shall be called into this affair," he said, "and I don't believe I shall, but if I am summoned to Bayonne can feel certain that I won't allow the rights of Americans to be trampled on by persons who have come to us from foreign shores."

A PERCENTAGE IN EQUITY

Small Mining Operations Often Get More than Their Share of Cars.

It is worth while, perhaps, to bear in mind in connection with the car supply that under present governmental regulation all producers have such claims upon the facilities of the railroads that the smaller operators are in reality apt to have rather more than their proportion of cars, owing to approximation of their trouble-making possibilities.

On a strict percentage allotment a mine might be entitled to two and one-quarter cars a day, but for fear of some trouble being made the distributor gives the mine three cars instead of two.

While this as a single instance is a very small feature, when such circumstances are multiplied by a hundred to cover a hundred such operations, and then again multiplied by a hundred to represent the days of the most active shipping season, it will be found that the circumstance is not without influence in the general transportation situation.

Henry Ore Shipments.
To October 1st the shipments of Lake Superior ore to Lake ports had reached a total of 48,816,650 tons, the September movement alone being 9,600,788 tons. October shipments are estimated at 9,000,000 and November at 4,500,000, making the total for the season 62,300,000 tons, not including the all-rail movement which it is estimated will swell the grand total to 64,000,000 tons.

British Coal Exports Fall Off.
Exports of coal from Great Britain during the eight months ended August 31, 1916, amounted to 25,799,398 tons, which were 23,134,215 tons, nearly 50 per cent, under those for same period of 1915, which goes to show in what extent tonnage shipped from the United Kingdom has fallen off because of the war.

Coal Production in Colorado.
During the first eight months of 1916 Colorado produced 6,252,541 tons of coal.

COUGHS—COLDS—TONSILLITIS
PNEUMONIA
NEURITIS—ACUTE RHEUMATISM

Ion-o-lex Unguent is the discovery of an English scientist—it is used by many of the most prominent physicians in England—and also in the English military hospitals where it is proving wonderfully successful in cases of pneumonia, bronchitis and similar diseases.

Dr. J. H. Wilson, one of the most prominent of English physicians who has studied the use of Ion-o-lex in private practice and in the English military hospitals, writes of it:

"A large number of cases of Acute Pneumonia and Bronchitis have now been treated with it, and in every one temperature has been reduced to normal within 24 hours, with rapid relief of symptoms."

Ion-o-lex Unguent is a household necessity—it is entirely harmless and is amazingly effective in cases of sore throat, croup, tonsillitis, acute rheumatism—and in furnishing almost instant relief in cases of burns, scalds, wounds, etc.

When you set out to make a call in person, you always assure yourself that you have the right address.

In telephone-calling, equal sureness as to the proper telephone number saves not only time but positive annoyances both to you and to the person who may be called in error.

The sure way is first to consult the directory carefully—not trusting to memory—and then listen carefully while the operator repeats the number back to you, correcting her if she has misunderstood.

Then, too, at times, when a number is called in error, it is well to remember that the person called to the telephone by mistake is never at fault and deserves the utmost courtesy.

SOX OUTCLASSED ROBBY'S DODGERS

Boston Men Showed All Around Superiority in World Series.

WHEAT BIG DISAPPOINTMENT

Brooklyn's Crack Outfielder Fell
Flat; Daubert Another Manager
Johnson Deserves Great Credit for Winning National League Flag.

The Brooklyn Dodgers have had ample time to dress their wounds and put affordably a $2,700 bank roll in the off big pocket and have one source of solace—they were lucky to have had the chance. They knew that they were beaten badly, soundly and thoroughly by the best ball club in the American league, which is to say the best in the country—the Boston Red Sox.

There was no lucky time on which they can fall back for an alibi around the old winter store in the home town. There was no favoritism shown by the umpires, and there was no fault to find with the sizes of the crowds, the largest assemblage that ever viewed a championship struggle. Their share of the prize was the largest ever paid to a loser. It was fifty as much as their play deserved, no less and no more.

The Dodgers should be satisfied. They were as badly outclassed as were all the National League clubs that entered into past season contests with the American leaguers. They won one game in five, which is all that was won by the St. Louis Cardinals against the Browns. They did better than the Cubs, who lost four straight to the White Sox. Truly, the old National League is on crutches.

In the final game of the one sided fight the Dodgers had their chance to brace up and strike a telling blow. They did attempt to rally and at times showed real courage, but it was as futile as trying to butt down a stone wall. They were as helpless as babies in arms.

The National League has been badly shown up.

A careful review of the five games played between the Red Sox and Dodgers fails to show a single isolated spot wherein the Dodgers showed superiority. They were even outclassed in batting, the one thing that was expected to save them. Their base running was pathetic.

Compare the entire two teams and this statement will be found to be true:

The Red Sox pitchers were far superior. The Red Sox infield made the Dodgers' defense appear inane. The Red Sox outfield was far better in hitting and fielding.

Zach Wheat, who was expected to be a hero of the series, flickered terribly at the bat, on the bases and in the outfield. Duff Lewis made seven hits to his four and batted everything that came his way perfectly. In fact, it would be difficult to say whether Lewis or Harry Hooper was the real star of the long struggle. Their rivals were not in the same class.

Jake Daubert, pride of Flatbush and the man whom all Brooklyn has prayed to see in a world's series these many years, was a keen disappointment to himself as well as the fans. Daubert batted nicely and must be given credit for accepting and handling cleanly some very hard blows. But that is all. For all round effectiveness Holtzcler kept the Brooklyn star in a shadow.

Mike Mower, at third, played more consistent ball than any man on the Brooklyn club, with the exception of Otto Miller, who caught two beautiful games. Chief Mower was used often than Miller on account of his recognized hitting ability, but this time the chief appeared to be off his stride. He had several opportunities for glory, but fell down, apparently through over-cautiousness to make good.

The best that can be said of the infield work of Olsen and Cushman is that it was inane. It was no wonder to compare them with the marvelous Scott and Jannette.

To sum it in one simple charge, the greatest failing of the Brooklyn players was that they never took advantage of opportunities when they were offered, while the Red Sox rarely failed. A man on the base paths would run at the wrong time, would get caught off the base and invariably would make some blunder just when clever thinking was needed.

For several weeks past when the dopsters were figuring out possible chances it was shown that the Dodgers had superior hitters, their two star men being Daubert, with a percentage of .317, and Wheat, with .322.

The suggestion was advanced that the kind of hitting world have been impossible against American league pitchers. Though scoffed at at the time, that suggestion appears to have had real foundation.

Against the Red Sox pitchers Wheat hit .210 and Daubert .174.

The failure of the Dodgers has been in an unexpected way a tribute to Wilbert Robinson's ability as a manager. After seeing the weak effort of the Brooklyn team against the American leaguers the fans can only marvel that Robble could have led them into a league championship. That one question has been asked more than any other during the series.

SWEDISH SKATERS COMING.

Number of Crack Foreign Blade Artists
Will Visit America This Winter.

Thomas W. Cahill, secretary of the United States Football association, returned a few days ago with the American soccer football team which he took to Norway and Sweden for a series of games with the best Scandinavian could offer. It was the first international soccer game in which an American soccer team ever participated and was the only international contest in any sport arranged this year. The European team having broken up the usual international matches on the other side.

While football occupied most of Mr. Cahill's attention, he looked into other sports too. Baseball is being taken up generally, and he organized a ball team from his football players and played two games, winning both. Baseball is now introduced into the Swedish public schools.

Mr. Cahill also had a talk with Oscar Mathison, champion speed skater of the world, and was asked by Mr. Mathison to try to arrange matches for him for this winter. Mathison expects to sail for the United States next month and is anxious to meet Ed Lamy at any distance. He is prompted to the trip by information that the great revival of skating interest in New York last winter is spreading all over the country and that great ice rinks are being built in half a dozen cities.

Other Swedish skaters informed Mr. Cahill that they would be over here this winter. Ulrich Salehove, champion figure skater, and Meyer and Mrs. Berget, a team of figure skaters. Also Marta Johansson is another. She is a figure skater and, according to some of those who have seen her, will easily rank among the highest on the list of world's champions in the graceful art.

Fred Clarke is Preparing.
Apparently Fred Clarke, former manager of the Pirates, made a bet strike when he decided to quit baseball and go out to his Kansas ranch and till the soil. Since sojourning on his big farm in the west Fred has leased some valuable oil land which it is thought will net him a fortune inside of a very few years. According to a personal friend of the former buccannier boss, Fred has already been offered $500,000 by a large oil company for his holdings.

NEW SWIMMING WONDER.

Hawaii Bonnets of Star Who Has Shown His Heels to Americans.

John Keill of Honolulu, Hawaii, is the latest find in the field of swimming. Particulars just received of the big water crawler held recently in Honolulu give convincing evidence he has the making of one of the greatest all round water men ever developed.

A virtual novice, having competed in his first race only a few months ago, this remarkable youth proved the sensation of the Honolulu meet.

At 100 yards, in a special contest with the speedy George Canlin, he pressed the latter hard, himself covering the course in 35.3 seconds. At the 200 yards he was second to Teddy Cann of the New York A. C., defeating Duke Kahanamoku, George Gunba, Herbert Volmer and George Kruger and crossing the line in 2 minutes 20.4 seconds, or within four-fifths of the world's outdoor record. At 400 yards he finished third to Ludy Langer and Teddy Cann, after a stirring neck to neck fight with the New York man in the race which saw Langer hang up a new outdoor mark of 5 minutes 28 seconds.

These three performances, in themselves notable, become amazing when the youth and lack of experience of the Hawaiian lad are taken into consideration.

Hawaiians now confidently express the belief that Keill will be winning international laurels before another season has passed, and the belief seems fully warranted.

Bluebird photoplays have gone to French literature for an inspiration and Emil Gaboriau's famous detective story, "The Clue of Gold," has been made the basis of E. J. Clavson's scenario for the melodrama to be presented at the Soisson Theatre today under the title of "The Evil Women Do." The life of a Parisian adventures in relation, in many stirring episodes, and the moral effect of the picture is developed in the punishment of villainy and the triumph of virtue.

supporting company has been chosen with every individual cast in roles for which they are through their artistic temperament particularly fitted. In this Bluebird fulfills its policy to make "The Play the Thing" and then give it every advantage in the matter of cast and presentation.

THE PARAMOUNT.

"THE LITTLE LIAR"—A Triangle Fine Arts play starring Mae Marsh as the little boarding house slave, is today's feature attraction. Miss Marsh as "The Little Liar," is delightful, and the work of Bobby Barron, the reporter, who sticks to her through thick and thin, is clever. Prominent in the support of Miss Marsh are Olga Grey and Carl Stockdale. As an adventures, who for the time being, stoops to become a shotlifter, Olga Grey is excellent. The story has to do with a little girl who has an overpowering fondness for telling lies. It seems impossible for her to get the better of the fault, and her parents finally give her up as incorrigible. Thinking to cure her they place her at work in a boarding house where she meets the young reporter, the shotlifter and the latter's side partner. Decidedly interesting are the scenes depicting life in a cheap boarding house, to which "The Little Liar's" parents have sent her. The American boarding house is an institution peculiar to this country. In it may be found every type imaginable from the actress in "Uncle Tom's Cabin," to the ribbon counter clerk, the reporter, the dressmaker, the school teacher, the stenographer and the girl who is trying to get a position singing in a church, the plaster, the poor young doctor, the lawyer and minister and the wife of a travelling salesman. Life in this sort of a boarding house is wonderfully portrayed in this "The Little Liar."

From the pattern of the table-cloth to the antique sideboard and the picnic casket in the center of the table, the room will prove a familiar sight to many, while the small gossip and the would be jokes are characteristic of the life of such a house. In such environment does Mae Marsh pour soup down the neck of the reporter, Robert Harren. A Keystone comedy in two acts is included. Tomorrow, Lillian Walker will be seen in "Mrs. Dane's Danger." Harry Myers and Rosemary Theby will appear in a Vim comedy.

SHIP BY WATER.

West Virginia Operators Leading Barres on Account of Car Shortage.
Because of an unusual shortage of railroad cars, mine operators along the Kanawha river and Cabin creek in West Virginia, are loading coal to barges to be shipped to the Southern markets on the first rise in the Ohio river.

On Cabin creek, where many of the mines are located, it is impossible to ship 50 per cent of the normal production by rail and the operators have found it necessary to send their output to the South by the water route.

Saunders said nothing. He paid for the liquor and stepping to the table, sat with his back to the doorway. In front of him lay his gun, placed haphazardly, but with studied carelessness. He leaned naturally on one elbow, as though half asleep. His hat was tilted over his brow.

From outside came the jingle of spurs and the clank of the distant sound of wheels. Saunders began leisurely to roll a cigarette. He had a few matches on the table. Several of the men at the bar glanced knowingly.

Then came the grilling of heels on the hard packed trail, and Overland Red stood in the doorway. "Mornin', Saunders," he said, glancing at the figure seated back toward him.

"Hello, Red," exclaimed Joe Kennedy. "Ous early, ain't you? Have a drink?"

"Not too early, I reckon," said Overland Red. "I guess I'll have a drink with me, then."

"Then you don't smoke either while I'm here," said Overland, his hand on his hip.

The stature of Overland's automaton mingled with the roar of Saunders' heavy guns.

Saunders, jumping clear, pulled his gun. Kennedy clutched his arm. Saunders slid from his chair, coughed hoarsely and wilted to the floor. Overland backed toward the door, both guns leveled.

Saunders, jerking his arm free, threw two shots at Overland, who replied with a rippling tattoo of the automatic. The two county outlaw sank to his hands and knees. Then Overland leaped through the doorway. The Moonstone riders spurred toward the saloon, thinking that the quarrel had provoked too many guns. Overland tried to stop them, but they were too fast for him.

"It's a clean up!" yelled Parks, running out of the saloon and mounting his horse. "You framed it, you red-headed son!"

"I got no further," Brand Williams, thundering down at the head of the Moonstone riders, threw a level shot that cut through Parks, who wavered, but managed to wheel his horse and flee at Overland Red. Then the outlaw slid from the saddle, clanking at it as he fell.

"That's all!"

"All right, let's have a drink, boys."

Even "Go Light" Sage, the eldest of the Gophertown crew, admitted Overland's conduct in turning his back on Saunders and facing the bar.

For a second Saunders' fingers twitched. He glanced up.

Joe Kennedy was looking at him over his glass of whiskey. "Ain't you drinkin', Sittin' Flat?" he asked.

"With some folks," said Saunders. Overland whirled round. "Have a drink with me, then."

Saunders laughed.

"Then you don't smoke either while I'm here," said Overland, his hand on his hip.

countin' hard. He has to skip when he comes to number one on his right mitt. Says he can't get started to count that way.

They drew into Williams, dismounting, was bending over his companion Overland, who had suddenly slipped from the saddle.

"Where's he punctured?" queried Bud Light.

Williams examined the prostrate man. "Kind of low down, and in the side. Didn't hurt, but it's bad enough. Take the Yuma colt, Paris, and fan it for the canyon. Send the doc back, and you stay with that young Winthrop and look after Collie. Your boss is quieter for Red anyway. Tell the doc to bring his tools along. I reckon we'll camp over there near the hills tomorrow."

"Who was it got me?" questioned Overland as he was revived a second time.

"I don't know," replied Williams. "The only distinguishin' brand on him was one I put there. It ain't worryin' him now."

"Like old times," said Overland, trying to smile.

"Like old times," echoed Williams. "I guess it was Parks," murmured Overland. "He had plenty of chance. I wasn't after him."

Slowly the group of horsemen rode across the desert. The afternoon sun made queer shadows of them and their mounts. Billy Dime rode bent forward. His face was white and beaded with sweat. Overland, on Long's pony, was supported by Miguel and Brand Williams. Paris Long had his arms in the shadows of the range.

One morning, some three weeks after the invasion of Gophertown that night, Billy Dime and Brand Williams appeared at the Moonstone ranch office.

Quite casually they had dismounted and, jingling up, had asked for Walter Stone upon his appearance the younger man applied individually for their old places. The room smelled of cigarette smoke and antiseptics. Quite as though nothing unusual had happened the rancher related them.

"I've a good time boys?" he asked. "You did very good time; better than we expected," replied Billy Dime. Bud Light nodded.

Stone looked hard at Billy Dime's bandaged arm. "Miguel and Parson have a good time also?"

"Stayed to help Overland Red work the claim. Overland Red got hit a little dicker, somethin'. He's all right now."

"None of the Moonstone boys were injured?"

"Nope, not a one of us," replied Dime bluntly.

Walter Stone's eyes twinkled, but he did not smile. "We will call it a vacation this time, with pay. Tell Williams to stop in here, please."

The rancher dismissed his embarrassed and happy punchers with a gesture.

The interview with Williams was not so brief. "The boys came out of it all right," asked Stone, shaking hands with his old foreman.

"Yes, sir."

"How did you manage that?"

"Didn't. They did."

"Any one—of the other side have an accident?"

Saunders—and six cents got hurt pretty bad."

"When?"

"It was nothing but luck that they ain't all back there now—on the sand. You see, the Gophertown outfit are all what you'd call good with a gun, but it was kind of a surprise, the spreadin' of the thing from Red's little private duel to a six hand game. We were lucky."

"And Collie?"

Williams shook his head. "I don't know. We thought he had crossed over. Second he took a new hold. The doc and Winthrop bring him to Los in the automobile. How at the hospital. But they say he don't pick up any since he come there."

"All right, Brand. I think that is all."

"How about my name goin' back on the books?" asked Williams.

"It hasn't been off the books. You know, Louie's friends to the time yet."

Williams nodded. I expect Miguel and Parson Long will be fulfillin' around lookin' for a job before long. They agreed to stay with Red till he got on his feet again. But they said they would go just as soon as he was all right, for you couldn't run your ranch without 'em."

With a smile broadly, "You're losin' Brand."

"They was fightin' just as much for the name of the old Moonstone as for Collie or for fun," said Williams.

"I know it. But I don't believe in such methods. That sort of thing is about done with," said Stone.

"I was readin' about the old days in the Panhandle, not long ago," said Williams, gazing at a corner of the office.

"I'll show you a list of names of ranchers that cleaned up the ranchers over there, back in '86. It was interestin'—some of them names."

Walter Stone crossed and turned in his chair. He gazed out of the window. "Miguel he faced Williams again."

"We had to do it," he said smiling.

Williams nodded. They understood each other.

Louie returned home, heartbroken and haunted by Collie's eyes that had seemed so fearless, so indifferent, so steady. She had hoped to cheer him. His indifference affected her more than his actual physical condition, which seemed to be the cause of it. Louie recognized in herself a species of selfishness in feeling as she did. Like most folk of superabundant health, she was unable to realize the possibilities of sickness. She longed for his companionship. She had not dared to ask herself whether or not she loved him. She was glad that he should love her, and yet she was not altogether happy. She had sent him her token, the little gray riding gauntlet. He had in no way acknowledged it.

Then to have seen him in the hospital, helpless, seemingly beyond any noticeable influence of her presence, stirred in her a kind of maternal jealousy.

"You must get well," she said, smiling.

Only Straightway who visited Anne Marshall, who kissed her hand and at Anne's length saw the soft rose glow in her face and spoke to the point albeit in parables. Dr. Marshall had been very poor—a doctor in the slums—just before they were married. People had said things and had looked things which were even worse. They subtly indicated that the doctor was marrying her for her money. She was the happiest woman in the world. She thought Collie was the manliest and most striking figure she had ever seen.

To all of which Louie listened quietly, blushing a little. "And he is wealthy," concluded Anne. "For so young a man, he is wealthy. The Rose Girl Mining Company, Incorporated, my dear guys will. Collie is one of the three largest stockholders. You see, Billy and Overland Red have decided to turn the claim into a corporation."

"Don't you contradict your—your the dory a little, Anne?" asked Louie.

"No, indeed! It doesn't matter in the least who has the money, so long as the man is the right one."

And Louie was silent and a bit happier.

The little parcel that came to the hospital directed to Collie was from Overland. It was accompanied by a vividly worded note and a small, stained and wrinkled glove at once familiar.

Overland's note explained the delay in forwarding the glove. "It's some mused up," he wrote, "because I had it in my shirt when I was hit. I was some roused up like, or I could not have forgot it so long. The little Rose Girl sent it to you by Brand when she thought you was going to cross over on the last summer limited. And I am feeling fine, thanks. Do not give me if it gives you cramps—You're very fatherly, Jack."

Collie turned the gauntlet over in his trembling fingers. His eyes glowed. He called the nurse, telling her he was hungry.

Anne Marshall's visits were always refreshing. Well groomed, cool, fragrant, she came next afternoon to Collie's bedside.

"You must get well," she said, smiling. "The doctor will be to, by disappointed if you don't. Isn't that cold, by examining?" What a thing to say!

"I don't want to disappoint anybody," said Collie.

"Well, you will if you don't get better right away, sir. I wish I could do something to help. I can only sympathize and cheer you the doctor."

"It only came yesterday," said Collie, tremblingly drawing the gauntlet from beneath his pillow.

Anne Marshall gazed at the soiled and wrinkled glove with unlightened eyes. Then her quick eye flashed. "Oh, now I know," she said. "Is the talk about a new secretary? No wonder you seem brighter."

Collie's answering smile was a restful smile. "It isn't just the glove. But would you—I mean if you was like me without being educated or anything?"

He hesitated, breathing deeply.

But Anne Marshall understood him instantly and answered his shyly questioning eyes.

"Indeed I should. If I had half your chance I shouldn't waste a minute in claiming the mine to that glove. One glove is of absolutely no use, you know."

"This one was—pretty fine," sighed Collie. "I was feeling like lettin' it inside and not tryin' to stay in."

COLONEL COULTER DESCRIBES GUARD LIFE ON THE BORDER

Commander of "Fighting Teeth" Lands Men of His Command.

URGES UNIVERSAL TRAINING

Declares That Every Man Should be Prepared to Play His Part in Event of War Men Who Served on Border
Better Prepared to Face Life.

Special to The Courier.
PITTSBURG, Oct. 18.—Colonel Richard Coulter of Greensburg, commander of the "Fighting Teeth" Infantry, National Guard of Pennsylvania, which returned from the Mexican border last Wednesday, described in detail the soldier's life on the border in a talk yesterday at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon in the Fort Pitt Hotel.

More than 200 business men and a number of women from the Pittsburgh Chapter of the Woman's League for Preparedness heard Colonel Coulter's address, which was probably the most comprehensive and enlightening military talk ever heard in Pittsburgh.

In addition to describing the soldier's life on the border, the commander of the Tenth carefully analyzed the present mobilization of the National Guard in Texas. He told what it has meant to the citizen soldiery and he made many important suggestions as to how the business men of the country can help the militia.

Among other things the speaker advocated some military training for all the men of the country. He pointed out the theory that militiamen must be handled differently by their officers than regular army soldiers and advocated the same kind of discipline for both. He suggested some changes in the system obtaining in Pennsylvania for handling the guard and cited some of the difficulties experienced at Mount Gretna when the militia was called out last June.

The colonel praised his officers and his men for the particular stress upon the valuable services rendered by Lieutenant Colonel Walter Kruger, who was a regular army lieutenant when appointed second in command to Colonel Coulter. Lieutenant Colonel Kruger has been promoted to captain in the regular army and is stationed here in charge of the Pittsburgh Military Training Association.

Describing what the army surgeons are doing to prevent disease among the soldiers on the border, Colonel Coulter evoked considerable applause when he said: "That regiment you saw march through Pittsburgh last Wednesday was the cleanest I ever saw." "I will never forget the appearance of the recruits when they came to us at Mount Gretna," Colonel Coulter said. "We had no uniforms for them and they were compelled to soldier in the garments they had on when they enlisted. Many of them wore the oldest clothes they had so that they could throw them away upon receiving their uniforms. I remember one chap who had served with us in the Philippines. I saw him dressed in a short-sleeved undershirt, trousers and a belt, and a derby hat. They were that way for a week before we could equip them."

"We arrived at Mount Gretna June 21. On July 2 we were mustered into the United States service, packed our baggage and left at 10 o'clock that night for El Paso. When we arrived at El Paso we had but one uniform each. We put in requisitions and were soon well supplied with the exception of the very large and the very small sizes. We had good uniforms and we used them. They were quite different than in '03 when the volunteers carried different uniforms for which they frequently could not get ammunition. Our other equipment, canteens for instance, was half old pattern and half new."

"It ought not to be hard to devise some system to properly equip soldiers where they are called. Supplies should be kept on hand to equip an army of at least 100,000 men. One part of our equipment which came promptly on the border was horses and mules. First, they were unshod and unbroken, but we received them shortly after we arrived. We had 101 unbroken mules but by the end of July we had 22 wagons all working monthly, and all our officers and some of our non-commissioned officers were mounted."

"Another difficulty we experienced was accountability for our equipment. We had in account for $10,000 worth of rifles, $50,000 worth of clothing, $5,000 worth of ordnance, $50,000 worth of horses and mules and thousands of dollars in other equipment."

"The system of accounting in Pennsylvania may have been very good for the National Guard but at Mount

Gretna it was a different story. The South Connelville Band will hold a festival and close their popularity contest on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 19, 20 and 21. ## Iron is the Greatest of All Strength Builders, Says Doctor

A Secret of the Great Endurance and Power of Athletes

Ordinary Men and Women Will Make Difference in Many Cases.
NEW YORK, N. Y.—Most people foolishly seem to think they are going to get run over health and strength from some stimulating medicine, secret formula or narcotic drug, said Dr. Sauer, a well known specialist who has studied widely both in this country and Europe when, as a matter of fact, real and true strength can only come from the food you eat. But people often fail to get the strength out of their food because they haven't enough iron in their blood to enable it to change food into living matter. From their weakened, nervous condition they know something is wrong but they can't tell what, so they generally commence doctoring for stomach, liver or kidney trouble or symptoms of some other ailment caused by the lack of iron in the blood. This thing may go on for years while the patient suffers untold agony. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test. See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary iron and three times a day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. In many cases of nervous breakdown people who were ailing all the while double their strength and endurance and in the end get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old form of reduced iron, iron acetate or lactate of iron simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like iron from iron. If you want it to do any good, otherwise it may have worse than useless. Many an athlete or prize-fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the arena, while many another has gone down to ignominious defeat simply for the lack of iron.

NOTE.—Nuxated Iron recommended above by Dr. Sauer is not a patent medicine, does not contain any of the iron constituents is widely prescribed by eminent physicians everywhere. Unlike the old-fashioned iron products it is easily assimilated, does not injure the stomach, does not blacken the teeth, does not cause constipation, on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy in the treatment of indigestion as well as for nervous run-down conditions. The manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 40 who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent. or over in four weeks' time provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in 10 days' time. It is dispensed in this city by A. A. Clarke and all other druggists.—Adv.

Gretna we had to take up the regular army system, which was entirely new to us. In the future, the National Guard must adopt the same system used by the regular army. It is a very good system but it should have a little more flexibility, for times of emergency. Colonel Coulter then described the difficulty experienced in securing forms and blanks in which to make reports and requisitions, all of which had to be secured to the government printing office at Washington. Continuing, he said:

No one seemed to have the authority to order it done. In time of emergency don't stop for bids. What's the difference if it does cost a few dollars more? Accounts ought not to be referred back to Washington to be passed upon by a few civilian clerks who have been hanging on there for years."

The colonel told of the soldiers' rations, which he said averaged in allowance to each man per day 28 cents and a fraction over. The captain, with 100 men in his company is allowed a little more than $23 credit a day at the commissary department and the captain has to see to it that his men are well fed on this allowance. "A company commander would make a good hotel manager," the colonel said. "You would be surprised to see how well the men lived. They ate to their hearts' content. If another company has something special to eat they ask their company commander why they can't have it also. They are always nosing around to see who gets the best meal."

"I have been worried that advances in modern work in the army, the colonel declared. He explained that the army surgeon's work differs from that of another surgeon in that the army man's duty is to prevent disease. The work on the border was most effective. There wasn't a single case of typhoid fever the disease most prevalent in the country, the speaker declared.

"I could recommend my captains to manage hotels, run clothing stores or shoe stores—they had to measure the feet of every man—expert accountants. In fact, I believe they could fill a job in almost any line with credit."

As for the men, they were willing and full of energy. There was no sickness, and they came back stronger and healthier than when they left. I would take my chances with these 100 men who have had a little more than three months' training on the border for their service. In the future, I can on any other 1,000 men you select in any other way."
